

JUDGES COMMENT ON PROTECTION AND CRAFT MONEY

No Person in County Has Any Strings On The Court

HAS LEFT THE COUNTY

Judge Imposes Jail Term and Levies a Fine of $200

DOYLESTOWN, Dec. 12.—Before the close of the December term of criminal court of Bucks county yesterday, Judges Hiram H. Keller and Calvin S. Boyer commented on graft and police protection that might be promised bootleggers or liquor law violators by police or Justices of the Peace.

"I would like it known right now that no person in Bucks county, whether an officer of the law or not has strings on the Court when it comes to protection," President Judge Keller remarked.

The comment came after Richard Arbach and Joseph Leib had pleaded guilty to possessing twelve half-barrels of beer at the "Lake Louise Club," on Haunted Lane, Bensalem township, when the place was raided by State Police and County Detective Anthony Russo, of Bristol.

After hearing testimony, Judge Keller sentenced Arbach, the president and proprietor of the club, who has recently been living in Newark, N. J., with his sister, to pay a fine of $200 and costs and serve four months in the county prison. Leib, the club secretary and bartender, who Judge Keller described as "a tool," was sentenced to a fine of $100 and two months in the county prison.

The club, Arbach testified, has between thirty-five and forty members, mostly Philadelphians.

"It is the type of man that you are that puts an officer of the law in bad light," Judge Keller said to Arbach. "You alone know whether you paid protection money or not, but I want it understood here that if anybody in Bucks county is offering police protection to bootleggers they are fakes. Fortunately, most of the officers in Bucks county cannot be reached with bribes."

Arbach's attorney asked the Court that his client not be sent to prison because of the fact that he has left Bucks county.

"The only words of your counsel that appeal to the Court is that you have left Bucks county," Judge Keller told Arbach. "The sentence is that you go to prison for four months and pay a fine of $200 and costs."

When sentence was pronounced, Arbach's sister, who was in the court room, fainted hysterically and had to be carried from the court room and revived in the corridor of the court house.

John Schilling, of Bristol township, pleaded guilty yesterday before Judges Keller and Boyer to a charge of possessing six half-barrels of beer at his (Continued on Page 4)

Final Performance of Show Is Witnessed by 500 People

"A wonderful show," was the comment given by the audience when the curtain went down after the closing choruses of the "cabaret-minstrel," sponsored by the Mothers' and Fathers' Association, the final performance of which was given last evening in the high school auditorium.

About 500 people witnessed the performance. Solos, choruses and duet selections were splendidly rendered, while loud applause was given the several dancing numbers.

The "ends," Percy G. Ford and Charles G. Rathke, were exceptionally good and were the cause of much hilarity. Violin selections by Lester D. Thorne were very well received.

The half hour recital given by the orchestra from 8 to 8:30 warranted hearty congratulations from the audience, on the splendid rendition of the several selections.

"CHICKEN" JOHNSON AGAIN IN CUSTODY

Shoe Lacer and Foot Prints Found in Places Robbed

HE DENIES HIS GUILT

DOYLESTOWN, Dec. 12.—A pair of brown shoe strings will play an important part, police say, in sending Sterling D. ("Chicken") Johnson, one-time Buckingham Valley farmer, back to the Eastern State Penitentiary from whence he came a year ago on parole, after serving the minimum of a four to eight year sentence imposed by the late Judge William C. Ryan.

During the past month or more over 500 chickens have been stolen from henneries in central Bucks county, particularly in the Buckingham and Old York Road sections. State Police have received instructions to open up a drive of chicken thieves.

With the arrest of Johnson last night in Philadelphia by Corporal William Francis and Trooper James McGinn, of the local sub-station of State Police, the thefts in most cases, have been solved, police believe. It is the third time that Johnson, who is now fifty-eight, has been arrested for stealing chickens.

In his latest alleged thieving operation, Johnson, the police charge, established headquarters in Philadelphia, where he believed that he was free from suspicion. He boarded under disguise as a "down-and-out" at the Salvation Army Hotel on North Broad street, and at night drove into the county sections to steal chickens, the police say. He rented a two-car garage in the rear of an unoccupied house on Broad street, Philadelphia, and there kept his new coupe and a new dark-bodied truck that he recently purchased.

At the State Police sub-station here Johnson pleaded innocence. "I'm a Christian gentleman and did nothing. I'm innocent," Johnson told Corporal Francis.

What Is The Central Charity Committee?

THE Central Charity Committee is an organization composed of representatives of the various churches and fraternal organizations dispensing charity in Bristol. The Central Charity Committee was formed to provide a clearing house whereby duplication of effort would be prevented and worthy cases would be given assistance.

It was planned by those organizing the Central Charity Committee to have every organization dispensing charity in the borough represented on this committee and to have all cases reported to this committee before any charity was dispensed. This would absolutely prevent duplications and would tend to a wider distribution of charity to those who actually need it; and at the same time stop impositions on the part of those who are constantly seeking aid from outside sources.

The committee has functioned in a very credible manner during its existence and this winter it is planning to make every effort possible to give aid where it is needed. When a charity case is reported to the Central Committee an investigation is started and if the applicant for charity is found to have church or fraternal organization affiliation, said church or organization is notified and asked to take care of the case. If the applicant has no church or organization affiliation the Central Committee provides for the case out of its general fund.

The Central Charity Committee is now engaged in an effort to raise at least $2000 with which to meet the needs of the ensuing five months, when it is anticipated that the demands will be more numerous than usual. Contributions may be sent to Thomas Scott at the Farmers National Bank. They will be publicly acknowledged through the local press by publishing the names of the donors and the amounts of their contributions.

BRIDGE'S CENTER SPAN IS NOW CONNECTED

Inside Ends Closed When Girder Is Slipped Into Place

WORK IS BEING RUSHED

The center lift span of the Burlington-Bristol bridge was joined yesterday when the two projecting central parts were connected.

The rivets which held the first steel girder linking the two states were put in place yesterday afternoon. The bridge is nearing completion. With progress on construction work being hurried, word has come from Trenton that the State Board of Public Utility Commissioners has granted a permit for closing Ellis street and opening Reed in Burlington.

The commissioners, in giving the permit, said that it was advisable to do so at this time "as the railroad through Burlington may be relocated." No explanation of the statement was made, although it has been rumored in Burlington for several months that the railroad plans to take its tracks out of the center of the city. It is believed the commissioners were banking on that rumor when they granted the permit.

The new crossing at Reed street will be a continuation of the Burlington approach to the Burlington-Bristol Bridge.

In granting its permit the New Jersey board said:

"As Ellis street is only 600 feet distant from Reed street, it would appear that a crossing at Reed street could be reasonably substituted. Lateral highways connect Ellis street with Reed street, on both sides of the railroad right-of-way, also with Talbot street, which highway is located 600 feet west of Ellis street and crosses the tracks at grade."

"Consideration has been given to the separation of grades at Reed street and the cost of such construction, and as the railroad through Burlington may be relocated for the present it appears expedient to permit a crossing at grade."

FAILS TO CONCENTRATE

By "The Stroller"

Dorothy is a resident of South Langhorne, and thoroughly enjoys her studies in the fourth grade at the public school in that borough. Sometimes, however, she finds recitations of the higher classes in her room, more interesting than her own studies.

So it proved the other day when Dorothy was supposed to be working out arithmetic problems. The sixth grade pupils were reciting about Sir Galahad in their English lesson, and as Dorothy had ears on her recitations and eyes on her arithmetic, the following conversation took place when she reached home and mother:

"Mother, who is Callahan?"

"Why, he's the barber," mother replied.

"No, this man lived long ago, because some of the kids study about him in school."

The names of Calvert, Cabot, and others that sounded like the name mentioned were recalled by the mother, but none of these would do.

"No, this Callahan was hunting for holy grass," Dorothy replied.

PROPOSALS FOR RELIEF NEAR FINAL ENACTMENT

Republican and Democratic Leaders Study Necessity of Additional Remedies

MAY COMBINE PROGRAM

By William K. Hutchinson
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—The first two legislative proposals in President Hoover's program for relief of unemployment and agricultural distress neared final enactment today while both Republican and Democratic leaders studied the necessity of passing additional remedies.

There was a strong disposition on the part of party leaders to combine in enacting a relief program, fully adequate to give relief to both farmers and idle workers during the coming winter. They proposed to join in a survey of conditions to determine whether the first two bills—for drought relief and spurring Federal construction—would meet the situation. This survey may be undertaken by one or more Senate committees, starting early next week.

Some Democratic and insurgent Senators continued to demand enactment of additional legislation, particularly bills tending to establish a Federal reserve against future periods of unemployment. Most of the administration Republicans however were ready to "stand by" the President's program, providing a survey of conditions indicated it would provide adequate relief during the winter.

The President's $110,000,000 relief bill, originally $150,000,000 written to speed Federal construction work, was in conference to iron out differences between the House and Senate. It passed the House in the form desired by the President. The Senate ignored White House wishes, placed a curb on the President's power to spend the money and inserted a provision, compelling the use of local labor and the payment of local wage scales on all new projects. Indications were both changes would be accepted by the House.

The principal expenditures under the bill would be $80,000,000 on wood roads and $22,500,000 on river and harbor improvements. The road fund, however would not be available unless each State put up a sum, matching its allocation of Federal funds. The funds also will be deducted during the next five years from like allotments from the Federal Government.

The President's other bill, an appropriation for feed, seed and food loans to farmers in drought areas, was in the House. It passed the Senate carrying $60,000,000 but was reported to the House with this sum cut to $30,000,000. Leaders believe it will be fixed at $45,000,000 in conference.

Lower Bucks Scout Board Meets in Quarterly Session

The Lower Bucks District Scout Board had its quarterly meeting "Tuesday evening under the chairmanship of V. V. Vansant of Bristol. The following men representing their local troops were present: V. V. Vansant, Minot Hill Scout Executive Board; Herbert Pettit, Bristol No. 1; Rev. A. Solla, Bristol No. 4; W. H. H. Fine, Sea Scout Ship Elks, Bristol; Maxwell Koplin, Newportville No. 1; Harry Oliver, Andalusia No. 1; W. Snyder, merit badge commissioner of the lower Bucks district; Scout Executive W. F. Livermore, Jr., and Assistant Scout Executive Robert X. Perry.

The Scout program covering the coming season was explained by Mr. Livermore and many interesting topics were taken up. The participation of the Scouts in the dedication of the Burlington-Bristol bridge was discussed and steps taken to have the local boys take part in the exercises. Assistant Executive Perry rendered a field report for the Lower Bucks District covering the past three months. The election of officers was next taken up and the chairman of the nominating committee, Warren P. Snyder, read the report of the nominating committee which was accepted by acclamation. The officers for the coming year are: Chairman, V. V. Vansant; vice-chairmen, J. E. W. Tracy and Minot Hill.

Following a discussion on general Scout matters the meeting closed at 7:45 with plans for the next meeting of the district board to take place the first Tuesday in March to be held in Bristol.

RAMBLERS STILL IN RUNNING IN LEAGUE

Claw Wildcats in Hibernian League Cage Contest Last Night

By T. M. Juno

Ability to make good on their foul tries enabled the Ramblers to keep in the running for the A. O. H. Basketball League lead by clawing the Wildcats last night on the Hibernians' floor. The final tabulations were: Ramblers, 21; Wildcats, 18.

The game was roughly played on the part of both quintets who seemed eager for a victory.

The winning points of the game were scored from the fifteen foot mark and were made by Joe Mulligan, who scored two, and Lawler and Roe, who scored the others. These foul goals proved the margin of victory as time and time again the Ramblers had easy shots at the basket only to miss. Most of the playing was done in the Wildcats' territory but the Ramblers kept missing their shots while the Wildcats had a keen eye for the net and kept in the running of the game by occasionally netting a two-pointer.

"Tuddy" Gosline was high scorer of the game with nine points, four double-deckers and a free shot. McCafferty and Roe were close behind with seven points each. Both fives played a wonderful defensive game.

The line-up:

Ramblers	F	G	F	G	Pts
McCafferty f	3	1	7
Roe f	3	1	7

In the second game of the evening, the Rangers staged a belated second half rally which fell short of its mark and thus the team dropped its seventh straight league loss. The league leading Tigers were the victors with the final count being 20-14.

At the half time interval the Tigers were sporting a 14-3 lead but "Doc" Potts' boys came through in the second half and threw a great scare into the leaders by scoring four twin-pointers in rapid succession while the best the winners could do was to score two foul in 13 tries. However, at the waning moments of the game the Tigers scored twice from the field and put the game on ice.

"Johnny" Rodgers was the best bet in this game, coming through with nine points which kept the Rangers in the game.

"Chuckie" Connors and Kervick were the main cogs in the passing system of both quintets.

The line-up:

Rangers	F	G	F	G	Pts
Rodgers f	4	1	9

ROAD CONDITIONS WILL BE REPORTED BY MEMBERS OF MOTOR PATROL

The North wind doth blow, And we shall have snow, And what will poor robin do then? He'll fly to the barn, To keep himself warm, And hide his head under his wing. Poor thing!

HARRISBURG, Dec. 12.—Pennsylvania's State Highway Patrolmen have been directed by Superintendent William C. Price to report immediately to State Highway Department headquarters in their districts road conditions which constitute a hazard for motorists. Snow may be falling, and the winds blowing—the highway may be slicked and slippery, but the patrolman must make his rounds. His mind conjures a phrase in the regulations governing the outfit:

"Inclement weather will not be considered an excuse for failure to comply with regulations covering patrol activities."

"Of course," said Captain Philip C. Dorr today, "the day's mileage is not so great in bad weather as in the smiling days of June, but each of our men has a route to cover and heable."

RAILROAD WANTS LAND NEAR HERE FOR MOTOR ROUTE

Rumor to This Effect Circulated at Jury of View Hearing

MAY ADD TWO TRACKS

Testimony Taken As to Value of Land That is Wanted

A jury of view sat here today to hear testimony as to the value of land taken and what damage the taking of said land had caused the property from which it had been taken on June 9th, this year. The land in question is located in Bensalem and Bristol townships and it has been taken by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company. Rumors, about the jury chambers, were to the effect that the land had been taken by the P. R. R. Company for the purpose of providing a motor truck and bus route parallel with the company's tracks. Others claim that it is for the purpose of placing two additional tracks on the Company's right-of-way, making the line between Philadelphia and New York a six-track route instead of four.

The jury comprised Webster Grim, Doylestown, president; Joseph Palmer, Newtown; and Harry J. Arnold, Bristol.

The land was taken by the P. R. R. under its right of Eminent Domain, and in all cases heard up until noon today, only a portion of the entire tracts have been taken.

Senator Clarence J. Buckman represented the P. R. R., while I. L. Rubin represented one of the defendants and John P. Taylor, of the other.

The morning session was devoted to hearing those qualifying as real estate experts, both sides presenting witnesses.

Five witnesses testified in the case of Joseph E. Ebersson, Eddington. The P. R. R. took a strip of land about 40 x 50 feet from the Ebersson tract at Eddington situated between the railroad and the Bristol Pike.

Three of the five expert witnesses testifying were for Ebersson and two for the P. R. R.

Otto Grupp, Sr., Croydon; J. Alfred Rigby, Cornwall's Heights; and Lewis R. Walton, Andalusia, were witnesses for Ebersson while Hugh B. Eastburn, Jr., and Francis J. Byers, both of Bristol, gave testimony for the P. R. R.

Ebersson's witnesses placed the following value upon his entire property:

Grupp, $7800 to $8000; Walton, $7750 and Rigby, $7000. The value of the property after the P. R. R. had taken that portion which it desired was given as follows:

Grupp, $7000 to $7200; Walton, $7000; Rigby, $6350.

The P. R. R. witnesses gave these values:

Eastburn, $6000; Byers, $6500, previous to the taking of the land which the P. R. R. desired. After the P. R. R. took what they wanted the value of the land left was estimated by Eastburn and Byers as follows:

Eastburn, $5700; Byers, $6200.

I. L. Rubin was the attorney for Ebersson and John P. Taylor appeared in behalf of John Zimmerman and others interested in the Zimmerman property.

The Zimmerman lot is located on the Lemington Land Association tract near the P. R. R. John Zimmerman was on the stand and said that the P. R. R. had taken 65 feet off the rear of his lot. The property was left to him, a brother and two sisters in 1911 by his father.

Zimmerman said frankly he did not know the value of the lot but he knew what it had cost him.

CHRISTMAS SHOPPING

(With "MERRY")

Put These By Baby's Stocking

Bunny slippers are always a source of much happiness with the little tots. The woolly warmth of them, coupled with the cunning bunny faces make them doubly welcome. A pair that Moffo's Shoe Shop, 211 Mill street, is now displaying, are of dark brown leather, with the woolly rabbit face on the front of each. The eyes have a silvery gleam, and the tiny mouth and nose are worked in red floss. Baby's stocking being so small, they probably won't fit inside, but the little tots don't mind in the least, just so they can hug the bunnies to them to their hearts' content.

Suggestion for a Lady

I was just entranced when I reached Smith's Model Shop window, 412 Mill street, yesterday afternoon, for there were to be found all manner of dresses, coats, hats, scarfs, gloves, pocketbooks, under-things, silk pajamas, and many others, all of which would delight the heart of any member of the fair sex. And right at the front of one of the display groups was the most attractive mesh bag you ever saw. Upon a background of cream color there were attractive designs in lavender, green and black. The top part of the bag, the chain, and the chain-tringe at the bottom, were of gold, making a most attractive piece of this useful gift suggestion.

Quite A Solution

Marjorie confided to me yesterday that she solved her Christmas purchasing problem at one stroke. I could hardly believe my ears, until she explained, and then I made a resolution to do the same next year. The answer to the problem was this: Marjorie phoned Nichols' Studio, Wood street, and made an appointment to have photographs made. The next day she made the visit to the studio, and now she has the proofs. She showed them to me yesterday when we met down-town, and when she asked which I would choose as her gift to me, I just couldn't help but act selfish, and answered "One of each." They are dandies, and all show splendid likenesses of the subject. And Marjorie seemed so pleased with the manner in which Mr. Nichols assisted her in selection of cabinets, size of the photos, and all of the little details.

DEBT REDUCTION

Another battle in Congress over war debt reduction looms in spite of the agreement on all sides that declining revenues and the demands for unemployment relief make curtailed debt-reduction payments next year expedient, if not unavoidable.

President Hoover is definitely committed to a temporary emergency policy of applying interest payments from foreign nations to current expenses of the government if needed, but he opposes suspension of the statutory provisions for reducing the war indebtedness.

Here is the cause of impending friction between two groups in Congress and between one of those groups and the executive branch. The dissenting group, whose guns may have been spiked by the president's statement of policy, proposes to alter the sinking fund provisions of the law to provide additional funds for other purposes.

The danger from such a course, as pointed out by the president, Secretary Mellon and Senator Smoot, is that it would disturb the security behind the government loans to the possible impairment of the public credit. It is ever good business to maintain sinking fund payments.

In the face of the threatened deficit and unusual demands upon the Federal Treasury, the public is reconciled to the government's inability for the time being to continue reducing the national debt at the satisfactory rate maintained since 1919, but it will take the side of the president in his insistence on compliance with all statutory provisions.

NEWSPAPER PIONEERS

Bronze busts and other memorials of 12 outstanding newspaper men who spent part of their journalistic careers in Illinois were recently unveiled in the "Editors' Hall of Fame" at the University of Illinois, the world's first newspaper Valhalla and the first Pantheon dedicated to members of the newspaper profession.

These men have not been recognized merely because they were leaders in their profession. They were historians of the present tense, honored as gatherers and interpreters of the news which has with time become the substance of history. They created something of permanent value, contributed something of worth to the period in which they lived and to the communities in which they lived and worked. And the names of some of these would stand immortal without this perpetuation in chiseled stone.

Best known in the group are Melville E. Stone, a founder of the Associated Press and former editor of the Chicago Daily News; Edward Willis Scripps, one of the founders of the United Press; Joseph Medill, the builder of the Chicago Tribune; Victor F. Lawson, another of the Associated Press founders and Chicago publisher, and Elijah Parish Lovejoy, anti-slavery and freedom of the press crusader who was killed by a mob defending his presses.

Their fame and names are writ in eternal stone, and their work has left its impression upon the social, political and intellectual character of the nation.

STRONG LINE-UP PLANNED FOR CHARITY GAME

Bristol High alumni committee on basketball will have the strongest line-up of stars ever assembled on the floor when the Alumni play the High School charity game to be held in the auditorium.

The girls' team will be selected from the following players: Blanche Bertola, Francis Blanch, Margaret Pope, Florence Pierce, Ellen McFadden, Elsie Rognachill, Lucy Randolph and Lena Giagnacova, each girl a former high school star of a few years ago.

On the men's team, such clever players as Edgar Opydke, John Black, Leslie Strumfels, Marvin McEuen, William Conca, Earl Wright, John Smoyer and Eugene Spadacino, other former greats, are expected to be in the line-up when the opening whistle blows.

The officials who will referee the games will be the well-known "Al" Bauer, who is bound to keep the game moving rapidly and Miss Marion Tomlinson, who has had a wide experience in the sport.

Coach Townsend will have his squad in fine fettle for the contests and the fans are assured of a pair of great games.

The committee in charge of this affair is extending every effort to make the evening a big success and urge that everyone attend the games to help swell the fund for charity.

Mr. and Mrs. George Gannett, of Beaver street, will pass the weekend at the home of Mrs. Gannett's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Emil Bannick, of Wynnefield.

Mr. and Mrs. William C. Wright, of Pine street, had as Sunday guests Mr. and Mrs. John Lewis and son, of Trenton, N. J.

Judges Comment On Protection and Graft Money

Restaurant on the Newportville Road when it was raided by State Police and County Detective Russo recently. He was fined $200 and costs.

Hugh Ruane, thirty-two, of Philadelphia, and Peter J. Kubler, of Philadelphia, pleaded guilty yesterday before Judges Keller and Boyer to a charge of transporting and possessing a half-barrel of high-powered beer from Trenton to a "party" near Oxford Valley on October 2 this year.

District Attorney Eastburn nolleprossed the bill against Kubler after the testimony had been offered, and the Court discharged him.

Last Sept. Ruane was fined $250 and costs and given a suspended prison sentence of 30 days and placed on parole for possessing liquor at his roadside stand near Fallsington. He violated his parole when he was arrested in October by State Highway Patrolman William Francis of the Edison sub-station, who was traveling along the Lincoln Highway at the time near Oxford Valley. Ruane was turned over to the Morrisville State Police.

Yesterday Ruane told the Court that he had gone to a "party" where there was supposed to be some beer served. When he got there he found no beer, but other members of the party picked him to go to Trenton and bring back a half-barrel of beer.

"The good natured Irishman that he is, he fell for it in spite of the fact that he was then on parole," Howard I. James, defense counsel, remarked to the Court in asking that a prison sentence not be imposed.

"He has certainly learned a lesson now," Mr. James continued. "He has moved to Philadelphia where he and his bride of several months are now conducting a cigar and candy store.

His friends simply imposed on his good nature the way it looks to me."

Judge Keller said that he agreed with counsel to a certain extent and was willing to give Ruane one more chance. He was fined $200 and costs and given a suspended prison sentence of two months.

son still showed signs of fight in spite of his incarceration in the penitentiary for a 4-year period. Noted for his fights and arguments with officers and constables when he lived in Bucks county, Johnson issued another invitation.

"I can take any man living and give him a beating. I do not care who he is," he said. "And if I get a chance at some of the cops that arrested me before, I'd carry out my promise of giving them a good trimming if I had a chance."

Last Monday night Johnson made a bad mis-step, police say, that may mean his return to the penitentiary.

Jacob Koch, of Hartsville, has a hennerly along the Old York Road near Hartsville. He and a neighbor, Justus Henry, went out to the barn to treat a sick cow. While there they noticed a man in the chicken house.

"What are you doing in there?" Koch asked the stranger as he turned a flashlight on him.

"I'm looking for people by the name of Conners," the stranger answered and then fled out the door in the direction of a parked coupe on the highway and disappeared as the startled Koch and his friend looked on.

But the description of the man was given to Corporal Francis and it answered the description of "Chicken" Johnson as to size, dress, manner and method of operation. The stranger had one "bad" eye, and incidentally Johnson's right eye is artificial.

The same night State Police were on the job in this vicinity when they captured two bandits just after they had looted out a roadside stand at Lahaska.

Searching about the Koch hennerly last Monday night after the stranger had fled, the officers found one burlap bag containing four Plymouth Rock chickens, with the top of the bag tied with a brown shoestring. The stranger had dropped the bag as he fled.

The following day Corporal Francis and other troopers started a search for "Chicken" Johnson. In Willow Grove they secured some very good evidence when they found that Johnson had been there last Monday night about 7:30 and had purchased three pairs of shoe strings at the Fisher store. He asked for "heavy ones, it makes no difference what color," Fisher, who knew Johnson in former years, told police.

Tuesday night the State Police searched all night in the vicinity of Johnsonville, but found no trace of chicken thieves.

Yesterday Corporal Francis and Trooper McGinn went to the Eastern State Penitentiary, where they were informed that Johnson had been released on parole in the custody of Major Kroft, of the Salvation Army, on September 19, 1929, after serving four of a four to eight years' sentence imposed in Doylestown.

At the Salvation Army Hotel the officers found that Johnson was a regular boarder there and that he paid room rent. They were informed that he had rented a house on North Broad street, Philadelphia, but called in the vicinity and could not locate it. Returning to the Salvation Army Hotel shortly before 6 o'clock last night, Corporal Francis was informed that Johnson had been there and had left a few minutes before to get his automobile out of a garage on North Broad street.

The description of Johnson's car was secured and a short time later the officers caught up with a car driven by Johnson near the corner of Broad and Fairmount avenue. Corporal Francis stopped the car and placed Johnson under arrest. He protested first, but submitted when he saw the officers meant business.

On the seat of the coupe next to Johnson was a suitcase containing a pair of overalls that were somewhat stained with blood and plastered here and there with chicken feathers, a pair of rubber-soled shoes, a flashlight and a pair of pliers, in addition to five new pairs of heavy brown shoestrings and several old pairs of black strings.

Sliding Down the River

The S. S. President Hoover sliding down the ways into the James River after being christened by Mrs. Herbert Hoover, at Newport News, Virginia. The new Dollar Liner is the first of the company's two new $8,000,000 turbo-electric ships. It is one of the most modern and palatial vessels ever turned out in American yards. The ship was named with a christening bottle containing water from the Seven Seas. Notables from many parts of the country were present for the ceremony.

BLACK CENTRE NAVY

December 13 Army football team will meet the Navy "11," the proceeds to help alleviate the sufferings of New York's vast army of unemployed. Above are pictured some of the star players of both teams, who will compete in what promises to be the most largely attended game of 1930. Arrangements are made for accommodating untold numbers at the Yankee Stadium, New York City, to witness this grid classic.

SURVEY SHOWS 8914
TEACHERS TAKE COURSES

HARRISBURG, Dec. 12.—Teachers of the boys and girls of the public schools become students themselves while teaching. A study just completed by the Teacher Bureau of the Department of Public Instruction shows 8914 teachers employed in the public schools of the Commonwealth are attending extension classes for teachers and are completing professional courses offered by the accredited colleges and universities in the State. Although the higher requirements for a license to teach, as recently adopted by the State Council of Education, do not become effective until September 1, 1931 and 1932, and do not apply to teachers who have already secured their license to teach, many teachers in service desire to meet the new requirements of preparation which become effective next year, when all secondary teachers and teachers of art, music and health will be required to have four years of post high school preparation.

The State Council of Education has taken adequate steps to guarantee that the extension courses will be given on the same high level as are resident courses in the institutions. It established a set of standards for the approval of extension courses to be offered for credit for teacher certification as follows:

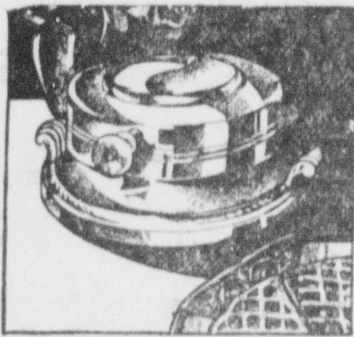

1. An extension course is an off-campus course which is not accepted toward satisfaction of the institution's residence requirements.
2. All courses must be given under the direct authority and control of the normal school, college, university or other institution approved by the State Council of Education.
3. All courses must be of post high school grade and equivalent to courses offered in the regular sessions of such institutions.
4. All instructors of extension classes must be regularly elected members of the faculty, and the names of all such persons employed must appear in the regular catalog as members of the faculty.
5. All students who are candidates for credit must meet the regular entrance requirements of the institution. Where students complete courses as auditors and do not desire credit toward State certification, the approved institution shall not issue certificates of credit, but may designate the satisfactory completion of such courses in some other appropriate manner.
6. The requirements for the satisfactory completion of any course shall be identical with those set up by the institution for the satisfactory completion of the same course as pursued by students in regular residence at the institution.
7. All courses shall be organized upon the basis of not fewer than fifteen sixty-minute class hours for each semester hour of credit.
8. Not more than six semester hours of credit shall be allowed for courses completed in any one semester by a student who, during such term, is a regularly employed full-time teacher.
9. Institutions desiring to offer extension courses for teacher preparation and certification shall submit such courses to the Department of Public Instruction for pre-approval as to character and conditions under which such courses are to be offered.
10. Extra-mural centers offering teacher preparation courses, which are accepted in satisfaction of the institution's residence requirements, shall be preapproved by the Department of Public Instruction. Approval will be based upon substantial reproduction of campus conditions.

The total enrollment in the extension courses approved in accordance with the above standards for the first semester of the year 1930-31 follows:

STOCK MARKET CLEARS DEBRIS AS YEAR ENDS

By W. S. Cousins
I. N. S. Financial Editor
NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—The most important task of the stock market of 1930 was the clearing away of the debris of the collapse of 1929. Whether or not that task had been completed was still a matter of conjecture at the year-end, prices of important groups of stocks having given no definite indication that they had touched bottom.

The beginning of the year found many of the banks, investment trusts, Wall Street pools and individual traders heavy holders of stocks which it was their desire and intention to liquidate on the best possible terms, and as soon as possible. It was the general impression in the business world that the depression would be short-lived and that the spring or early summer would see the ushering in of a recovery of moderate proportions. Under the stimulus of this recovery the stock market was expected to rally, affording all classes to unload the stocks they had "temporarily" taken over.

Banks in all sections of the country held in their vaults thousands of shares of stock on which money had been loaned to their customers and depositors. At prices prevailing when the loans were made, the banks were amply protected, but when values crumbled and the bottom dropped out of the market the margin of safety was wiped out almost overnight. After holding these stocks for six months or more, the banks and investment trusts inaugurated a liquidating wave which has exerted relentless pressure against the market and gradually forced down the level of prices to that of early 1927.

Cheerful business sentiment in the early part of the year was reflected in a brisk upward movement of stock prices, which continued with little interruption until the last week in April. In that period the Standard Statistics Company's index average of ninety representative stocks moved up from 160 to 295, a gain of 45 points or 22 1/2 per cent. The peak prices of the year were recorded in that movement, in United States Steel, General Electric, Westinghouse, New York Central Railroad, Consolidated Gas, Bethlehem Steel and other active stocks and the volume of trading was such as to suggest to the commission houses the prospect of a return of the balmy bull-market days of 1929.

There is considerable question in the minds of students of the stock market as to whether this "spring rise" represented a genuine recovery in American business, or whether the hand of the stock manipulator was not actively at work. Many investors had undoubtedly taken the word of the industrial heads, to the effect that "business had turned the corner" and that a few months hence would witness a grand revival, led by the automobile and building construction trades and by other lines. The business charts were already showing the move in the right direction, and forecasters pointed to the certainty of normal business conditions in the Fall.

Long after definite signs of a serious slackening in manufacturing and distributing of American commodities had made their appearance on the business horizon, the vigorous advance in the stock market continued on its course. United States Steel rose to within a halting distance of 200, General Electric pushed ahead almost on even terms with the peak level of 1929 and the gas and electric stocks worked steadily toward higher prices.

Realization of the disappointing action of important sections of American business, and the further postponement of the date of recovery in the forecasts of economists and business leaders was responsible for the heavy selling wave which swept over the market during the next six weeks. Under a torrent of selling, prices were swept downward violently. Real liquidation both of investment holdings and margin accounts was represented in this furious decline.

The next important rally carried prices upward in sluggish fashion during the summer months, but since the end of June the market has been under the influence of a constant outpouring of selling orders, which definitely prevented a recovery of major proportions.

"Cracking under the strain of steadily shrinking values, and unable to induce or compel their customers to provide more funds to protect their margin trading accounts, a number of the stock brokerage firms, members and non-members of the New York Stock Exchange, gave up the fight and acknowledged their inability to meet their obligations. Considering the enormous interests involved and the huge falling off in security values, it is surprising that casualties among the brokerage houses were not larger.

It was not until late October that genuine concern was felt in the financial district and elsewhere as to the ability of the market as a whole and of leading speculative stocks in particular, to "hold" above the price levels of the crash of 1929. There had been a general feeling that the low quotations of November, 1929, would stand for many years to come as the bottom round of the ladder of average market values of representative American stocks.

As the downward move continued, the fact was regretfully accepted by stock market bulls, as well as thousands of business and industrial leaders all over the country that the "resistance" levels established in the reaction of 1929 were to be penetrated. After hovering around 150 for nearly two weeks U. S. Steel finally broke under that rallying point and fell to 138. Westinghouse dropped below 100 and New York Central below 140. Movements of prices as a whole were shown in the following comparative table, showing the rise and fall of stock in Standard Statistics Company's list:

Date	Index	Ratio	1914	1918	1929
Nov. 1929	141.2	117.7	156.3	149.2
Jan. 2, 1930	167.4	128.5	207.9	188.2
April 10, 1930	292.4	133.3	380.3	295.8
Nov. 10, 1930	121.5	97.1	164.3	123.4
December	128.7	99.0	164.7	120.4

From the above it will be seen that the market reached its peak in April, declined steadily until reaching its low level on November 10, rallied a few points and then resumed its December decline. Tax selling and the cleaning out of stale margin and over-bought loan accounts was held largely responsible for the final selling wave of the year. House-cleaning by the investment trusts forced thousands of shares on the market at a time when investment and speculative demand was light. In many respects the reactionary stock market duplicated the uneven course of the principal lines of American business, giving little indication of a business revival of substantial character early in 1931.

Transactions on the New York Stock Exchange this year declined about 30 per cent from the highwater mark of 1930 and 20 per cent below 1928. Compared with 1925 to 1927 trading on the big board increased nearly 20 per cent, so that from the stock brokers' standpoint the year was fairly satisfactory.

Nothing emphasizes the enormous liquidation of stocks held in margin accounts, and the severe drop in prices of securities as the shrinkage of the volume of brokers' loans. Before the break of November 1929, the reserve board reported a total of $6,800,000,000 loaned to brokers against the deposit of stocks and bonds. At the year-end the amount had shrunk to $3,390,000,000 and on December 4 of this year to $2,111,000,000. This is a drop of close to 70 per cent, one of the most acute developments in financial history. A good part of the loans was transferred from brokers directly to borrowers, thus the change is not as drastic as it appears.

The reaction in security prices this year is but one important phase of a world-wide shrinkage in values, affecting the rubber grower in Ceylon as well as the steel magnate in America, Germany and France. Many commodities are selling at the lowest prices in twenty years and the resulting shrinkage in commodity values is reflected in diminishing buying power, which according to the economists is the cause of the business depression. The rebound from low prices, when it comes, will bring in a new prosperity era. Meanwhile, industrial heads and bankers are doing what they can to start the prosperity ball rolling.

WINDOWS OF BRISTOL SHOPS REFLECT SPIRIT OF JOYOUS AND COLORFUL CHRISTMAS SEASON

Bristol business establishments are coming to the fore in Christmas decorations and window displays.

In the fore-front of the Mill street windows is that of the C. W. Winter display room. Beside a red brick fireplace, is a life-size figure of Santa Claus, who with a pack on his back has just entered via the flue. Two groups of candles, five huge red ones in each group, occupy prominent places, each quintet resting in a mound of green holly decked with many red berries. An electrically-lighted tree stands in one corner of the window; while upon a base of red paper on the long window sills are sprays of holly leaves.

Garlands of rope laurel, draped attractively across the front of the office building, make a pretty Christmas season display at the Philadelphia Electric Company's place of business on Radcliffe street. Entwined with the laurel are electric wires with colored light bulbs attached, which add to the display at night.

Fred Rockey has spent quite a bit of time on the window at the front of his Mill street store. Twinkling lights are seen here and there amid the display of goods offered for sale, and a few tiny Christmas trees are advantageously placed. Wreaths and strands of silver trimming also lend a colorful note.

SOUTH LANGHORNE

Mr. and Mrs. George Fidler entertained the former's sister, Mrs. Catherine Larr, of Philadelphia, over the week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Doyle and grandchildren, Ruth Ehrlin and Jack Doyle, Jr., were visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Murphy, of Bethayres, Monday afternoon.

Mrs. Myrtle Brakefield, Miss Catherine Powers, Miss Margaret Campbell, Miss Lillian Zeiss, Robert Keim and William Engle motored to Trenton Sunday evening where they attended a theater.

Garret Bowers, of Woodlawn avenue, left Saturday for Martinsburg, W. Va., where he will spend a few days with his parents.

Miss Ann Little, of Trenton, was a week-end guest at the home of Mrs. Frank Roeder, of Durham Road.

Miss Celia O'Brien, of Oakhurst, spent Sunday in Philadelphia at the home of her sister, Mrs. J. Caulfield. Mrs. Catherine Ehrlin, of this place, and Miss Elsie Assenheimer, of Philadelphia, witnessed the game between Penn and the Navy Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. Helen Bratby, Miss Celia O'Brien, of this place; John Bradfield and John White, of Somerton, were guests at a dinner Saturday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hobe, of Lawndale.

Observe Tuberculosis Days Urges Governor

The observance of November 30 as Tuberculosis Sunday and December 12 as Tuberculosis Day in the schools is suggested by Governor Fisher, in announcing his acceptance of the honorary chairmanship of the 1930 Christmas Seal Sale in Pennsylvania.

Governor Fisher referred to health as one of the greatest gifts that can be provided for Pennsylvanians, saying:

"The Pennsylvania Tuberculosis Society and its 100 affiliated organizations throughout the State are engaged in a year round tuberculosis prevention and health promotion effort. This work is made possible by the annual sale of Christmas Seals and Health Bonds."

"The 24th annual Christmas Seal sale will begin Friday, November 28. In connection with this campaign Tuberculosis Day in the churches will be observed on Sunday, November 30, and Tuberculosis Day in the schools on Friday, December 12. It is fitting that this should be done. Tuberculosis daily wrecks homes—a condition in which our churches and schools are vitally interested. Information will be given on the disease and how to prevent it."

"The Christmas Seal this year pictures a jovial Santa Claus, with a tree on his shoulder, announcing he brings 'HEALTH TO ALL.' Health is one of the greatest and most lasting gifts. This is the only Seal devoted to health work."

"Disturbed economic conditions, like the present, help to break down resistance to tuberculosis. The use of these bright stickers on all letters and packages will aid this life saving work. It is a task that calls for the help of everybody."

State Conference

The Pennsylvania Tuberculosis Society will hold its 39th annual meeting in Bethlehem on Tuesday and Wednesday, January 20 and 21 next. The speakers will include prominent medical men of Pennsylvania and other states.

In connection with this State tuberculosis conference the Bethlehem Tuberculosis and Health Society will observe the 21st anniversary of its founding.

"Watch the Light," Says Santa Claus

Among the thousands of children hurrying daily to school or play, many need to heed the signal of Santa Claus, who directs the Christmas Seal traffic.

"Watch for the red light," says Santa. "When you see it, stop. The red light means danger to health; it means too much strain; short hours of sleep, ill-chosen food, neglected teeth and tonsils, too little sunshine."

"Tuberculosis usually begins in childhood, and may be endangering health long before any symptoms appear. Fully half the cases of adult tuberculosis in later years show X-Ray signs of having had this early condition called childhood tuberculosis at an age under 15. Such children can usually be discovered by the X-Ray and the tuberculin test and given special care."

"Parents should see that children take the well-marked detours around the steep grades during the years when the child is becoming a man; when school life is most intense and the temptation to excess is greatest."

"On the road to health, keep your brakes in good condition, stop at the red lights and proceed cautiously when you see the blinker of over-strain."

"Santa, did you put Christmas Seals on every gift? We did!"

BUY CHRISTMAS SEALS

Get plenty of them. Their cost is trifling. Their good far-reaching. The fund from the sale of Christmas Seals will help to fight tuberculosis all year round in every community.

Let your joyous Christmas spirit reach out to help the thousands who are bravely and hopelessly fighting against tuberculosis. Protect the children. Get your share of Christmas Seals today.

Raise Funds for Jobless

Grover A. Whelan (right), chairman of the Citizens Committee of the Salvation Army, and Sayre M. Ramsdell of Philco discuss ways and means of swelling the Salvation Army Radio Fund, which will be devoted to the relief of families of the unemployed throughout the country.

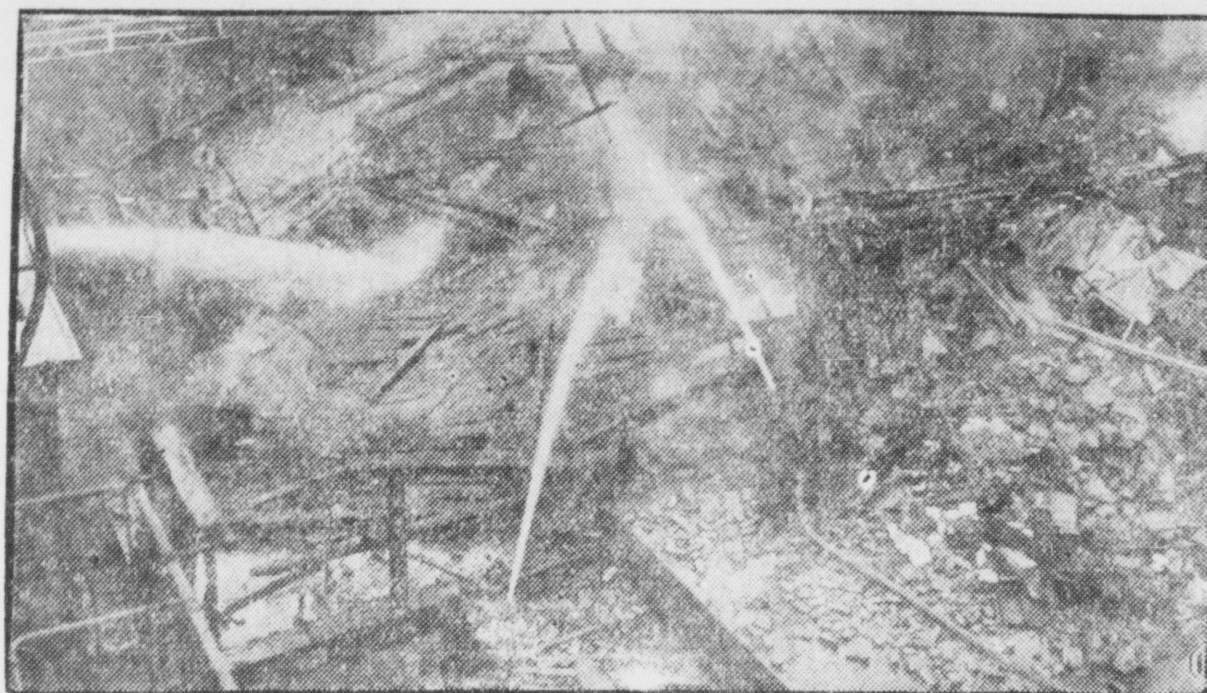

WELL over a million dollars will be raised for the relief of the unemployed by means of the Army-Navy charity football game on Saturday, December 13. Salvation Army officials estimate. In addition to the actual seat sales, for which 80,000 persons will pay from five to fifty dollars a seat, a nation-wide campaign for contributions will bring in hundreds of thousands of additional dollars, largely from the thirty million who are expected to listen to the game.

The game will be broadcast by every chain station of radio, and the Columbia Broadcasting System, with Graham McNamee, will be sold to the highest bidder, with the price going to the relief of the unemployed.

As a further contribution, Philco is distributing thousands of "broadcast tickets," which provide listeners in to the game an opportunity to contribute a dollar apiece to the Salvation Army Radio Fund. The tickets are being distributed through 15,000 Philco radio merchants in every city of the United States.

Every dollar raised goes direct to the Salvation Army Radio Fund. The game will be broadcast by every chain station of radio, and the Columbia Broadcasting System, with Graham McNamee, will be sold to the highest bidder, with the price going to the relief of the unemployed.
